

VOTER VITALS: A HEALTH CARE TRACKING POLL

February 2024 Edition

The latest edition shows that voters overwhelmingly support building on our current system more than creating a new government-run health insurance system like the public option. The ongoing threat of a federal government shutdown has made most even LESS confident in the ability of a government-run health insurance system to meet the needs of Americans, and the vast majority are CONCERNED about the access, cost, and workforce impacts of government-run proposals.

TOP ISSUES IN 2024

Inflation (48%)

Immigration (39%)

The Economy (37%)

HEALTH CARE POLICY

- Voter satisfaction with our health insurance system overall (50%, +7% since November 2023) and individual plans (75%, +5% since November) has INCREASED.
- The most popular health care reform proposal remains building on and improving our current system (70% support, +3% since November 2023), and an overwhelming majority (73%) prefer to build on our current system than create a public option.
- A majority of likely voters continue to be UNWILLING to pay any more for health care (79%) or in taxes (72%) to fund the creation of a public option.
- The threat of a potential federal government shutdown makes a majority of likely voters (56%) LESS confident in the ability of a new government-run health insurance system to meet the needs of Americans.
- The vast majority are CONCERNED about the access (82%), cost (81%), workforce (79%), and long-term fiscal impacts (72%) of government-run systems.